SAD DEATH OF MR. VREDENBERG

His Son Was With Him
When Shot Ended
His Life

HILLO, Dec. 14. — The Tribune gives the following detail of the death of Mr. Vredenberg:

Wilmott L. Vredenberg, the manager of the Waikiki section of the Parker ranch, was shot and killed by accident while hunting last Sunday morning.

The Tribune is indebted to Chester Doyle for the details of the affair, which he learned while staying at Honolulu.

Vredenberg went out hunting last Sunday morning, being accompanied by his son. Both rode horseback. Vredenberg shot a pig, and, placing his revolver in his pocket, he descended from his horse in order to despatch the wounded animal. The revolver fell from his pocket. It was discharged in striking the ground, and the bullet passed through the unfortunate man's heart.

He fell to the ground, and saying to his son "I am made, I am made," he expired on the spot. This happened about three miles from Vredenberg's house.

Vredenberg had been in the Hawaiian Islands for many years. He had an exceedingly large circle of friends all over the group, as he was an exceedingly pleasant and accomplished man. He was very practical, and added to this had an unusual musical talent, one of his performances which secured him much local fame being his ability to play the cornet and accompany himself on the piano.

Vredenberg spent most of his life in Hawaii in the South Kohala district. He was first the principal of the public school at Waimoe. Later on he went into the chicken business, and when the Puka plantation was started he became its manager. He then started in the automobile transportation business, with Waimoe as his headquarters, and finally accepted a position as manager of the Waikiki section of the Parker ranch. When the ranch began extensive farming in this section, such as corn planting and hay raising, Vredenberg was in charge of this work.

The deceased leaves a wife and eight children, who have the sympathy of the large circle of friends and acquaintances, who, with them, mourn his loss.

ALL BY ACCIDENT

Waha, a Hawaiian, who was found guilty this morning at the police station of assaulting his wife, tried to make out that the whole performance was an "accident." The woman who was assaulted was only his "accidental" wife and as he had also accidentally taken home a bottle of "Dago Red" there was soon something doing—all by accident.

Waha's affinity said that her bloke had thrown her down on the floor and then had bitten her on the back. The defendant denied throwing the woman down; said she fell because she was intoxicated; couldn't account for teeth marks except that perhaps through accident he had bitten her when he attempted to kiss her.

The affinity exhibited a finger and thumb which looked as if they had been caught in a steel trap; she claimed that Waha nearly chewed the digits off. Defendant swore that he was asleep on the floor and that the complainant had fallen over him and thrust her fingers into his mouth—by accident.

Judge Andrade listened to all the "accident" stories and then decided—accidentally—to send Waha over to Asch's hotel for a four months sojourn. Costs in the case have also to be paid by the man of accidents, and he was advised to be very careful when he came out of jail as he might be accidentally arrested again.

NEW CHIEF MAKES FIRST ARREST

Chief McDuffie has made his first important arrest and it was in connection with the first case he has worked on. Aukai Kaili is now in custody at the police station on a charge, to which he has pleaded guilty, of breaking into and robbing the Waiwae saloon.

It appears that on Monday evening after the proprietor had locked up for the night, someone got access to the liquor department and cleaned up all the beer, wine and whiskey that was on the shelves.

Deputy Sheriff Gilliland was informed of the matter and McDuffie was also put onto the job by Sheriff Jarrett. From information received it was decided that Aukai had something to do with the matter, and he was watched. The suspected man was evi-

"Pe-ru-na is a wonderful remedy for catarrhal troubles."

"Only five bottles rid my system of all traces of catarrh, and I have not noticed the slightest trouble for several months."

"My head was stopped up, my breath offensive, and it is a relief to be able to breathe freely once more."
